

Washington, D.C. – Today, Congressman Jerry McNerney (CA-11) reminds Stockton residents of two opportunities to have a say in the fate of the United States Postal Service (USPS) processing and distribution center located near Arch Road and Highway 99. It has been forecasted that merging the Stockton facility with the West Sacramento facility would cost 187 jobs.

“In this economy, our community cannot bear to lose any more jobs. We need to be focusing on how to create jobs, not putting folks out of work,” said Rep. McNerney.

Congressman McNerney encourages residents of the Stockton area to attend a public hearing on Thursday night:

Public Hearing on the Stockton Processing and Distribution Center
San Joaquin Office of Education Building
2707 Transworld Dr., Stockton
Thurs., Dec. 1, 2011
6-7:30 pm

Concerned citizens may also submit their comments in writing up until Dec. 17, 2011. Comments should be mailed to:

Manager of Consumer and Industry Contact
Sacramento District
3775 Industrial Blvd.
West Sacramento, CA 95799